

Computer Science for the Diploma Program

Johnson Jacob and Tony Albanese

January 2018

Chapter 1

Dummy Chapter

The chapter should start with perhaps a quote followed by the main objective of the unit.

The objective of the unit should be specially formatted so that is visually stands out from the rest of the text.

1.1 Subtopics

This is where the meat of the chapters lives. Each section should be a standalone section of text that makes sense. Here there should be sections for positive information and negative information that are screened separately.

There should also be exercises based on past papers which students can practice their work.

Dummy exercise package.

1.2 More subtopics

The subsections continue.

1.3 Past Paper Questions

Each section should end with past paper questions. These could be built into the chapter or this could be a link to online resources.